

In traveling I use the weather information and other services supplied by xm radio. This information allows me, far in advance of the reception of local radio stations, to make alteration in my route. This information has a direct effect on public safety in that it allows me to know about hazardous conditions, weather etc., and make necessary changes, even to the point of stopping my travel, until conditions approve.